

REdesign: Libraries

REdesign is a new approach to dialogue at the Worcester Art Museum, combining online audiences with onsite participants and journalism with art making.

Worcester Art Museum
Friday, May 3, 2013, 2-3pm
Conference Room
FREE

Join us for a dynamic exchange of ideas around the future usages of library spaces. Hear from some of today's leading thinkers in design, architecture and online learning in a lively conversation around space: spaces for libraries, working, art making, studying and socializing.

Moderator: Kulapat Yantrasast, Founding Partner and Creative Director of wHY Architecture

Panelists: Jeff Goldenson, co-organizer Library Test Kitchen, Harvard University; Adam Rozan, Director of Audience Engagement, WAM; Michael Edson, Director of Web and New Media Strategy, Smithsonian Institution; and YOU.

The conversation will be illustrated by artist Jamie Buckmaster.

Follow the conversation on Twitter @worcesterart & share your thoughts, ideas and questions. Tweets will be shared throughout the presentation.

